Biographies

LUIZA BIALASIEWICZ
University of Amsterdam

Luiza Bialasiewicz is Jean Monnet Professor of EU External Relations in the Department of European Studies at the University of Amsterdam and former Bronisław Geremek Fellow at IWM. Since 2013, she is also Visiting Professor at the College of Europe, Nato-lin, and serves as theme leader of the Amsterdam Centre for Contemporary European Studies (ACCESS EUROPE). Before moving to the Netherlands in 2011, she taught in the UK (at Royal Holloway, University of London, and at Durham University), in Italy, and in the United States.

Her research focuses on the political geographies of European borders and on EU foreign policy and geopolitics, with a particular emphasis on the Mediterranean and North Africa. Her most recent work examines the role of third states in the out-sourcing of EU border controls, as well as wider strategies of securitisation of the Mediterranean space. She is the editor of Europe in the World: EU Geopolitics and the Making of European Space.

VINCENT CHETAIL
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Professor of International Law at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, and Director of the Global Migration Centre, Vincent Chetail is also a Board Member of the Geneva Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights. He is Editor-in-Chief of Refugee Survey Quarterly, member of the founding editorial board of Oxford Bibliographies in International Law and General Editor of the Organisation internationale et relations internationales series.

He is the author of International Law and Migration, Reforming the Common European Asylum System: The New European Refugee Law (co-edited with P. De Bruycker and F. Maiani), Research Handbook on International Law and Migration (co-edited with C. Bauloz) and Code de droit international des migrations.

He has been Visiting Scholar at Harvard Law School (Human Rights Programme, 2013) and Visiting Professor at several universities, such as the European University Institute – Florence (2010), the University of Paris XI (2006–2012) and the Université libre de Bruxelles (2008–2012). He regularly serves as a consultant to governments, NGOs and international organisations (including the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the International Labour Organization and the International Organization for Migration).

CÉDRIC DUPONT
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Professor of International Relations/Political Science and Director of Executive Education at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Cédric Dupont is a Senior Research Fellow of the Berkeley Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation Study Center (BASC) at the University of California at Berkeley. He has been a consultant to various international organisations, multinational companies as well as a range of governments. In addition to courses and seminars for graduate students, he has taught a wide array of programmes to government officials and private sector employees.
He is a former Editor of the Swiss Political Science Review and former Associate Editor for Europe of the journal Business and Politics. He has been a visiting Professor at the University of California, Berkeley, Seoul National University and the University of Melbourne.

His research focuses on international political economic issues, both at the global and regional levels, on international cooperation, and international negotiation processes. His current work concentrates on the political economy of international investment arbitration, comparative regionalism, the management of jurisdictional boundaries between international organisations and the factors that influence trade negotiations in the European Union.

GABOR HALMAI
European University Institute

Professor of Law and Chair of Constitutional Law at the European University Institute in Florence and former EURIAS Visiting Fellow at IWM, Gabor Halmai’s primary research interests are comparative constitutional law and international human rights.

He has published several books and articles as well as edited volumes on these topics in English, German and Hungarian. His most recent book, Perspectives on Global Constitutionalism deals with the use of foreign and international law by domestic courts.

He has joined the European University Institute in Florence after a teaching and research career (at the Eötvös Loránd University in Hungary, at Princeton University, at the European Master’s Program in Human Rights and Democratization in Italy) as well as years of professional career as Chief Advisor to the President of the Hungarian Constitutional Court, member of the EU Fundamental Rights Agency’s Management Board and numerous other civic activities.

MIROSLAV N. JOVANOVIC
Global Studies Institute, University of Geneva

Miroslav Jovanovic works in the UN Economic Commission for Europe in Geneva and as lecturer in international economics at the Global Studies Institute of the University of Geneva. He joined the UN Centre on Transnational Corporations in New York in 1989 and moved to UNECE in 1992.

He studied at the University of Belgrade, University of Amsterdam and Queen’s University at Kingston, Ontario. He acted as the Director of Studies at the European Summer Academy in Spetses, Greece. He is specialised in economic integration, economic policy, as well as in evolutionary economic geography.

His most recent books include The Economics of International Integration and The Economics of European Integration. His most recent article is Emerging mega-integration blocs: limits and prospects.

VALERIA KORABLYOVA
Taras Shevchenko National University, Kyiv

Visiting Fellow of FIAL Open Society Foundations Global Dialogues project at the University of Warsaw, Valeria Korablyova has been Visiting Fellow at IWM (Ukraine in European Dialogue project, 2015–2016) and at Stanford University (Carnegie Research Fellowship Program, 2014–2015). She holds a PhD in Philosophy from V.N. Karazin Kharkiv National University (2006), where she subsequently worked as Assistant Professor and Associate Professor. In 2015 she obtained the Habilitation from Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv.

Her latest book Social Senses of Ideology covers ideological transformations of European modernity, including the rise of market rationality and emerging alternatives to it, revealing the Maidan uprising in Ukraine as a peculiar case herewith. Her scholarly interests include ideology studies, political philosophy, and post-communist transformations. Her current research focuses on region-building in East Central Europe and the EU project of “Europe”.

p. 2 — Has Europe Reached Its Limits? | Biographies
ANDRE LIEBICH
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Honorary Professor of International History and Politics at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Andre Liebich is Visiting Professor at the Global Studies Institute, University of Geneva and a former visiting fellow at IWM. Previously, he was Professor of Political Science at the University of Québec in Montréal. He has also taught at McGill University, the University of Montréal, the University of Fribourg and the Babes-Bolyai University, Cluj, Romania, where he was awarded a doctorate honoris causa. He has held research appointments at St. Antony’s and Nuffield Colleges, Oxford; the Russian Research Centre, Harvard; the Hoover Institution, Stanford; the Kennan Institute, Washington, DC; the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton; and the Institute for Historical Research, London.

His publications include: From the Other Shore: Russian Social Democracy after 1921, Les minorités nationales en Europe centrale et orientale, and Between Ideology and Utopia: The Politics and Philosophy of August Cieszkowski.

His interests lie in Central and East European history and politics, modern political thought and ideologies, and international history and theory. His current research deals with nationhood and statehood, and minority and diaspora politics.

ANNABELLE LITTOZ-MONNET
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Associate Professor of International Relations/Political Science at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Annabelle Littoz-Monnet was previously Assistant Professor at the Central European University, Budapest (2005–2009). She has also worked for the Socio-Legal Studies Centre at Oxford University and as Research Fellow at the Royal Institute of International Relations, Brussels (2004–2005).

Her articles have appeared in journals such as International Studies Quarterly, Governance, the European Journal of Political Research, West European Politics, the Journal of European Public Policy, and the Journal of Common Market Studies.

PAWEL MARCZEWSKI
Institute for Human Sciences (IWM)

Head of Publications at IWM, Pawel Marczewski studied sociology and history of ideas at the University of Warsaw where he obtained his doctoral degree in 2011 and was appointed as assistant professor at the Institute of Sociology. Pawel Marczewski has held visiting fellowships from IWM (2014–2015), the Centre for Advanced Study in Sofia (2013), the Department of Politics at Indiana University Bloomington (2010), and the Centre for Ethics, Social and Political Philosophy at the Katolieke Universiteit Leuven (2009).

He is a member of the editorial board of Przegląd Polityczny and a contributing writer at Tygodnik Powszechny. From 2007 to 2010 he was a staff writer at Europa magazine and co-founded the online weekly Kultura Liberalna in 2009. A book based on his dissertation To Make Liberty Inevitable: Republican Concepts in the Writings of Alexis de Tocqueville was published in 2012. He has translated three books by Tony Judt, including Thinking the Twentieth Century, into Polish.

ALESSANDRO MONSUTTI
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Professor of Anthropology and Sociology of Development at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Alessandro Monsutti has been Research Fellow at the School of Oriental and African Studies (1999–2000) and Yale University (2008–2010), Grantee of the MacArthur Foundation (2004–2006), and Visiting Professor at the University of Vienna (2012) and Arizona State University (2014). He is also Research Associate at the Refugee Studies Centre (University of Oxford). In addition, he has worked as a consultant for several international and nongovernmental organisations such as UNHCR.
His publications include War and Migration: Social Networks and Economic Strategies of the Hazaras of Afghanistan, as well as articles and edited books on Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran.

His current research interests include the political economy of reconstruction in Afghanistan as an example of emerging forms of sovereignty and global governance; asylum seekers and refugees in Europe; migrants and non-migrants in urban neighbourhoods; the changing nature of borderlands in Europe and South Asia.

JAN-WERNER MÜLLER
Princeton University

Professor of Politics at Princeton University and Visiting Fellow at IWM, Jan-Werner Müller is also Founding Director of the History of Political Thought Project at the University Center for Human Values.

He is the author of What is Populism?, Contesting Democracy: Political Ideas in Twentieth-Century Europe, Constitutional Patriotism, A Dangerous Mind: Carl Schmitt in Post-War European Thought and Another Country: German Intellectuals, Unification and National Identity.

His research interests include the history of modern political thought, liberalism and its critics, constitutionalism, religion and politics, and the normative dimensions of European integration.

MAGDALENA NOWICKA-FRANCZAK
University of Lodz

Assistant Professor of Sociology in the Department of Research on Social Communication at the Institute of Sociology, University of Lodz and former Bronisław Geremek Junior Visiting Fellow at IWM. Magdalena Nowicka-Franczak studied sociology at the University of Lodz and journalism and social communication at the University of Warsaw.

Her academic interests focus on the current public debates in Central and Eastern Europe, public rhetoric, post-Foucauldian discourse analysis, collective memory of Shoah and WWII. Her current research projects concern postcolonial discourses in Central and Eastern Europe and public debates in Poland and other countries of the region on democratic transition, EU politics and the migration crisis.

She contributes to Tygodnik Powszechny and Wiedza i Życie. She co-edited Discourse of the Symbolic Elites. A book based on her dissertation The Unwanted Debate: Jan Tomasz Gross’ Books in Poland will be published in December 2016 (in Polish).

MOHAMMAD-MAHMOUD OULD MOHAMEDOU
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Adjunct Professor of International History at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Mohammad-Mahmoud Ould Mohamedou was Scholar-in-Residence at the Harvard University Centre for Middle Eastern Studies in Cambridge, MA, before becoming a Research Associate at the Ralph Bunche Institute on the United Nations in New York. He was Director of Research at the Geneva-based International Council on Human Rights Policy, prior to returning to Harvard where he was Associate Director of the Programme on Humanitarian Policy and Conflict Research. He subsequently served as Minister of Foreign Affairs of Mauritania before returning to Geneva as Head of the Regional Development Programme at the Geneva Centre for Security Policy (GCSP) where he is currently Deputy Director and Academic Dean.

Widely published, he is the author of Democratisation in the 21st Century, Arab Agency and the UN project: The League of Arab States between Universality and Regionalism.

His research focuses on political violence and transnational terrorism, the transformation of warfare, political liberalisation and transitions to democracy, and contemporary Middle Eastern and North African socio-political developments and conflicts.
RENE SCHWOK
University of Geneva

Jean Monnet Professor of Political Science and Director of the Global Studies Institute at the University of Geneva, René Schwok has been Visiting Professor at the Université Catholique de Louvain, the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, the Diplomatic Academy of Malta, at the Graduate Institute, the Geneva Centre for Security Policy, and Colgate University.

His research focuses on the European Union, with a special interest in foreign relations of the EU, as well as issues concerning identity, history and the question of Europe. His research interests also include theories of international relations, external relations of Switzerland and the foreign policy of Nazi Germany.

HANS-JÜRGEN WAGENER
Europa-Universität Viadrina Frankfurt

Professor emeritus at Europa-Universität Viadrina Frankfurt (Oder, Germany) where he was Professor of Economics between 1993 and 2006 and at Rijksuniversiteit Groningen (The Netherlands) where he was Professor of Economics between 1975 and 1993, Hans-Jürgen Wagener has been a Guest at IWM and Fellow at the Wissenschaftskolleg zu Berlin. Between 1995 and 2006, he was Director of the Frankfurt Institute for Transformation Studies.

His present research focuses on European integration, transformation of economic systems, and the history of economics.

CHARLES WYPLOSZ
The Graduate Institute, Geneva

Professor of International Economics at the Graduate Institute, Geneva, Charles Wyplosz is also Director of the International Centre for Monetary and Banking Studies (ICMB). He has served as Associate Dean for Research and Development at INSEAD and Director of the PhD programme in Economics at the Ecole des hautes études en sciences sociales in Paris. He has also been Director of the International Macroeconomics Programme of CEPR, the leading European network of economists.

He has written several books and published more than one hundred articles in professional reviews and collective books. He is the co-author, with M. Burda, of a popular textbook on macroeconomics and, with R. Baldwin, of the leading textbook on European economic integration. He was a founding Managing Editor of the review Economic Policy. He serves on several boards of professional reviews and European research centres. He is a regular columnist in such newspapers as the Financial Times, Le Monde, Libération, Le Temps, Finanz und Wirtschaft, and Handelsblatt.

His main research areas include European monetary integration, financial crises, monetary policy, fiscal policy discipline and regional integration in various parts of the world.

A member of the “Bellagio Group”, Charles Wyplosz has advised a number of international organisations such as the European Commission, the European Parliament, the IMF, the World Bank, the United Nations, the Asian Development Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank. He has advised the President of France, the President of the European Commission, and the governments of Cyprus and the Russian Federation. He also consults with private financial institutions.