ALTERNATIVE PATHWAYS TO SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

LESSONS FROM LATIN AMERICA

Thursday, 26 October 2017 | 13h30 – 18h00

BRICS Policy Center, Rua Dona Mariana, 63, Botafogo, Rio de Janeiro

Join the journal International Development Policy for the launch of its latest thematic issue entitled Alternative Pathways to Sustainable Development – Lessons from Latin America. Focusing on the resource-rich Andean region, this issue looks at paradigmatic innovations and related development trajectories in Latin America. It examines the diverse development narratives, policy experiments and outcomes during the recent period of high commodity prices. What role does China play on the continent and what are the implications of China's investments for the region?

1. Introduction

GILLES CARBONNIER, Editor-in-Chief, International Development Policy, The Graduate Institute, Geneva
