TRADE AND THE GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT

Jeffrey A. Frankel, Harpel Professor

Harvard Kennedy School, Harvard University

Organised by the Centre for Trade and Economic Integration as part of the TAIT project

Greeting,

I write to invite you to an intellectually stimulating talk by Harvard Professor Jeffery Frankel on “Trade and the Global Environment” on Thursday 18 June 2009.

In addition to being one of the world’s leading international economists, Professor Frankel served on President Clinton’s Council of Economic Advisers from 1996 to 1999 during which time he worked – among many other things – on international environment issues. Since then he has developed a well-reasoned and innovative line of analysis on how the WTO can and should interact with climate issues.

The talk will be held in the usual Graduate Institute’s lecture hall Auditorium Jacques-Freymond (132, rue de Lausanne) and will start at 18.30.

The talk will be followed by a reception.

This talk is part of the Graduate Institute’s Centre for Trade and Economic Integration’s (CTEI) four-year programme “Thinking Ahead on International Trade”.

For logistical reasons, please could you indicate your intention to attend by replying to this email. I hope you will be able to join us.

Regards
