

THE GRADUATE INSTITUTE | GENEVA

INSTITUT DE HAUTES ÉTUDES
INTERNATIONALES ET DU DÉVELOPPEMENT

GRADUATE INSTITUTE OF INTERNATIONAL AND DEVELOPMENT STUDIES

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland

invites applications for a full-time position at the rank of Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professor of

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

with a specialisation in International Environmental Politics

starting on 1st September 2010 or a mutually agreed-upon date

Candidates – men or women - must hold a Ph.D. – or for candidates at the rank of assistant professor be expected to hold in the months ahead- in Political Science, International Relations, or an equivalent field with a substantive area of knowledge in one or more international environmental issues, for example in the politics of global warming negotiations. They should have a strong analytical background, including knowledge of statistics, a proven ability to work with colleagues from other disciplines and, for more experienced scholars, a strong research track-record. Knowledge of environmental politics issues in developing countries is an asset.

The successful candidate will be familiar with theoretical work in international environmental politics. He is expected to teach a graduate-level survey course in that field, as well as at least one general course (on a rotating basis) on international relations and, depending on the rank of appointment, to supervise master and doctoral theses.

The language of instruction is either English or French, but candidates will be expected to soon acquire, if not already possess, a working knowledge of the other language.

Applications, including a detailed curriculum vitae and a list of publications, - but excluding letters of recommendation and samples of publications -, must reach the Director, Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, P.O. Box 136, 1211 Geneva 21, Switzerland (email: director@graduateinstitute.ch) by 1st October 2009.

General terms of appointment for a teaching position at the Institute may be obtained at the same address.

The Institute reserves the right to fill this position by invitation at any time.

For more information about the Institute, candidates are encouraged to consult the Institute's website: http://graduateinstitute.ch/open_positions