INAUGURATION DE LA MAISON DE LA PAIX

La Maison de la paix a été inaugurée le 3 octobre 2014 en présence de M. Didier Burkhalter, président de la Confédération suisse, de M. François Longchamp, président du Conseil d'Etat de la République et canton de Genève, de M^{me} Sandrine Salerno, conseillère administrative de la Ville de Genève, et de plus de 500 invités.

The Maison de la paix was inaugurated on 3 October 2014 in the presence of Mr Didier Burkhalter, President of the Swiss Confederation, Mr François Longchamp, President of the State Council of the Republic and Canton of Geneva, Ms Sandrine Salerno, Administrative Councillor of the City of Geneva, and more than 500 guests.

M. Jacques Forster, président du Conseil de fondation, avec M. Didier Burkhalter (à droite) et M. François Longchamp (à gauche).

Le mot du directeur

Le 3 octobre 2014, la Maison de la paix a été inaugurée en présence des plus hautes autorités de Suisse et de Genève. Un projet qui a mobilisé beaucoup d'énergie et suscité beaucoup d'enthousiasme s'est ainsi achevé d'une manière réjouissante.

Le premier motif de satisfaction est que les délais et les coûts ont été respectés, alors même que le résultat va bien au-delà de ce qui avait été envisagé lors du concours d'architecture en 2007. En effet, grâce aux quelque 35 millions de francs recueillis auprès de généreux donateurs, au premier rang desquels il faut mentionner la fondation Hans Wilsdorf et M^{me} Kathryn W. Davis, et grâce aux optimisations obtenues avec l'aide de l'entreprise Steiner SA, nous avons réalisé avec le budget de départ un bâtiment plus beau (double façade), plus grand (interprétale) et mieux équipé (en particulier la bibliothèque, grâce à la Loterie Romande). Davantage, faisant fond sur ces conditions favorables, nous avons construit, sans la moindre subvention, une extension de deux pétales qui permet d'utiliser pleinement, de l'avenue de France à l'avenue de la Paix, un terrain dont la forme triangulaire a permis à notre architecte, Eric Ott, d'IPAS Architectes SA, de donner la mesure de sa créativité.

Le deuxième motif de satisfaction est que la réalisation de la Maison de la paix confirme la justesse de la stratégie de partenariat public-privé que notre Conseil de fondation a fait sienne et dont la Maison des étudiants Edgar et Danièle de Picciotto a été la première illustration. Cette stratégie aura permis de construire un immeuble emblématique d'un coût total de 210 millions, dont un tiers provient de subventions publiques et le reste se distribue entre dons et emprunt bancaire. Ce résultat aurait difficilement pu être atteint sans la liberté de décision et la capacité de réaction que donnent à l'Institut son statut et sa gouvernance de fondation de droit privé.

Le troisième motif de satisfaction est que la Maison de la paix associe l'Institut à un projet plus large qui vise à consolider la Genève internationale en regroupant sous un même toit plusieurs institutions actives dans la promotion de la paix. Avec l'Institut, les trois centres soutenus par la Confédération – le Centre pour le contrôle démocratique des forces armées (DCAF), le Centre de politique de sécurité (GCSP) et le Centre international de déminage humanitaire (GICHD) – offrent une concentration d'expertise sur les enjeux de la paix qui apportera une contribution substantielle à la réflexion et à l'action de la communauté internationale. Autour et au-delà de la mission universitaire de l'Institut, la Maison de la paix sera un lieu de rencontre, de débat et d'action dont toutes les parties prenantes auront à cœur de développer le potentiel.

L'INSTITUT
THE INSTITUTE

L'Institut de hautes études internationales et du développement est un établissement universitaire de recherche et d'enseignement postgrade, spécialisé dans l'étude des affaires mondiales, au croisement des relations internationales et des questions de développement.

Installé au cœur de la Genève internationale, l'Institut offre des programmes d'études disciplinaires et interdisciplinaires au niveau du master et du doctorat. Il produit une recherche à la fois fondamentale et appliquée sur les principales thématiques du monde international contemporain. Il a également pour vocation d'offrir une expertise ainsi que des programmes de formation et d'être une plateforme de débat et de dialogue à l'intention des acteurs internationaux, en particulier dans les champs d'activité suivants :

- la coopération internationale, qu'il s'agisse d'administrations nationales à rayon d'action international (ministères des affaires étrangères, du commerce, de l'économie, de la santé, banques centrales, etc.), d'organisations intergouvernementales ou encore d'organisations non gouvernementales
- les affaires internationales, notamment les entreprises multinationales, le secteur financier, les cabinets d'avocats, les sociétés de conseil et de relations publiques
- l'analyse des questions internationales, à savoir l'enseignement et la recherche universitaire, les think tanks, les fondations internationales, les médias, etc.

L'ambition et les valeurs Ambition and Values

L'Institut a pour ambition de compter parmi les meilleurs établissements académiques au monde. Il met au service de cette ambition des atouts qui lui donnent un profil distinctif :

- la réunion sous un même toit du droit international et des principales disciplines des sciences sociales (anthropologie, économie, histoire, science politique, sociologie), ce qui lui permet d'approcher les questions mondiales à partir d'angles multiples
- la densité de l'expertise produite par une centaine d'enseignants-chercheurs et 350 doctorants qui utilisent avec profit un environnement fait de maîtrise disciplinaire et de stimulation interdisciplinaire
- la localisation au cœur de la Genève internationale, l'un des principaux centres mondiaux de la gouvernance internationale
- un cosmopolitisme qui nourrit une expérience immédiate de la diversité du monde et valorise le respect de cette diversité

Dans toutes ses activités, l'Institut s'oriente sur des valeurs qui fondent sa mission. Il entend notamment

- promouvoir la coopération internationale en proposant une réflexion novatrice sur les défis du monde contemporain
- apporter une contribution académique au développement de sociétés moins favorisées
- encourager un sentiment de responsabilité globale
- favoriser le respect de la diversité

The Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies is an institution of research and higher education dedicated to the study of world affairs, with a particular emphasis on the cross-cutting fields of international relations and development issues.

Situated in the heart of International Geneva, the Institute offers disciplinary and interdisciplinary master and doctorate programmes. It produces both fundamental and applied research focusing on today's major international issues. It also provides expertise and training programmes and is a platform for debate and dialogue for international actors, in particular from the following fields:

- international cooperation, including national administrations working on international issues (ministries of foreign affairs, trade, economy, health, central banks, etc.), intergovernmental as well as non-governmental organisations
- international business, notably multinational companies, the finance sector, law firms, consulting and public relations agencies
- analysis of global issues, such as university-level teaching and research, think tanks, international foundations, the media, etc.

The Institute strives to be among the best academic institutions in the world. To achieve this ambition, it uses its unique strengths:

- its combined focus on international law and the main disciplines in the social sciences (anthropology, economics, history, political science, sociology), which allows it to tackle global challenges from multiple angles
- the depth of knowledge produced by more than 100 faculty members and researchers as well as 350 doctoral students who take advantage of the Institute's disciplinary expertise and interdisciplinary stimulation
- its location in the heart of International Geneva, one of the world's main centres of international governance
- a cosmopolitan environment providing immersion into the world's diversity and enhancing respect for cultural differences

In all of its activities, the Institute is guided by the values at the core of its mission, which include:

- promoting international cooperation by fostering innovative thinking on today's global challenges
- providing an academic contribution to the development of less-privileged societies
- instilling global responsibility
- encouraging respect for diversity

Le professeur David Sylvan.

L'expertise Expertise

Le domaine de spécialisation de l'Institut est l'étude des principaux défis globaux, internationaux et transnationaux du monde contemporain, avec un accent particulier sur le monde extra-européen.

The Institute's area of specialisation is the study of today's main global challenges, international and transnational, with a particular focus on the world outside of Europe.

La gouvernance Governance

L'Institut est une fondation de droit privé, dont le Conseil est composé de personnalités venant du monde universitaire, des organisations internationales, des médias et du secteur privé.

L'Institut est accrédité par le gouvernement suisse. Pour son mandat de service public, il reçoit des subventions de la Confédération suisse et de l'Etat de Genève.

Sa stratégie de développement est fondée sur trois principes:

- l'amélioration continue de la qualité de ses prestations
- la gestion efficace et flexible de ses moyens
- l'augmentation et la diversification de ses revenus propres, qu'ils proviennent de contrats de recherche, de la formation continue, de partenariats public-privé ou de dons philanthropiques

LES MEMBRES DU CONSEIL DE FONDATION MEMBERS OF THE FOUNDATION BOARD

En novembre 2014, M. Rolf Soiron et M^{me} Beth Krasna ont succédé à M. Jacques Forster et M^{me} Isabelle Werenfels à la présidence et à la vice-présidence du Conseil de fondation. Les nouveaux responsables disposent tous deux d'une grande expérience de la gouvernance des hautes écoles.

ROLF SOIRON

Président du Conseil de fondation · Chairman of the Foundation Board

M. Rolf Soiron a présidé pendant dix ans le Conseil de l'Université de Bâle. Il est membre de l'Assemblée du Comité international de la Croix-Rouge. Actif dans le monde économique suisse, il préside le conseil d'administration de Lonza et a siégé dans les conseils de plusieurs entreprises, parmi lesquelles Holcim et Synthes. Il a également présidé le conseil du think tank Avenir Suisse.

The Institute is a private foundation whose Board is made up of prominent figures from academia, international organisations, the media and the private sector.

The Institute is accredited by the Swiss government. To carry out its public service role, it receives subsidies from the Swiss Confederation and the State of Geneva.

Its development strategy is based on three principles:

- the continuous improvement of the quality of its services
- efficient and flexible management of its resources
- an increase in and diversification of funding, such as research contracts, executive education income, public-private partnerships or philanthropic donations

In November 2014, Mr Rolf Soiron and Ms Beth Krasna succeeded Mr Jacques Forster and Ms Isabelle Werenfels as President and Vice-President of the Foundation Board. Both have extensive experience in university governance.

BETH KRASNA

Vice-présidente du Conseil de fondation · Vice-Chairwoman of the Foundation Board

M^{me} Beth Krasna est membre du Conseil des Ecoles polytechniques fédérales depuis 2003 et présidente du comité d'audit depuis 2008. Elle siège aux conseils d'administration de Bonnard & Gardel Holding, de Coop, de Raymond Weil et de Symbiotics. Depuis mai 2014, elle est directrice générale de The Roberto Giori Company. M^{me} Krasna est également membre de l'Académie suisse des sciences techniques.

Les anciens Alumni

Depuis 2008, 21 chapitres ont été créés par nos anciens étudiants de par le monde, dont trois en 2014 : La Paz/Sucre, Luxembourg et Shanghai. Ces chapitres manifestent la fierté d'appartenir à la communauté de l'Institut et de pouvoir bénéficier d'un réseau et de conseils. Ils apportent en outre leur soutien à la promotion de l'Institut dans les régions où ils sont implantés en organisant des événements et en offrant un point de contact à de futurs étudiants avant leur arrivée à l'Institut.

Since 2008, our alumni have established 21 chapters around the world, including three in 2014: La Paz/Sucre, Luxembourg and Shanghai. These chapters demonstrate the pride of belonging to the Institute's community and the benefits of its network. They also support the promotion of the Institute in the regions in which they operate by organising events and by providing a point of contact for future students before their arrival at the Institute.

M^{me} SHIN HAE BONG
Présidente du chapitre de Tokyo
Professeur de droit international à l'Université Aoyama Gakuin

« Ceux qui viennent de loin gardent des souvenirs plus marqués. Etudier le droit et les relations internationales à l'Institut a été une expérience merveilleuse. Je suis convaincue que ces deux ans d'études ont constitué les fondations de ma carrière de chercheuse et d'enseignante du droit international. J'en suis profondément reconnaissante à l'Institut. Je me réjouis de pouvoir maintenir le lien avec celui-ci et contribuer à son développement en rassemblant les anciens au Japon et en diffusant les informations nécessaires aux personnes qui souhaitent venir y étudier. »

M. PAUL MATHIEU
Président du chapitre de Washington, DC
Chef de division adjoint au Fonds monétaire international

“ My motivation in leading the work of the Washington alumni chapter is to stay connected to the Institute, to which I feel highly indebted to for my higher education, and try to give back as much as possible and in as many ways as possible. We have sought new ways to contribute, including a chapter scholarship, representing the Institute at recruitment events and welcoming new alumni to the area. It is also fun to stay in touch with those with whom we shared such a wonderful experience, as well as getting to know newer alumni. As with life in general, you get back a lot when you invest in things you enjoy. ”

Le développement durable Sustainable Development

En 2012, l'Institut a entamé une réflexion approfondie sur le développement durable. Un état des lieux de notre performance environnementale ainsi qu'une étude d'impact ont permis d'identifier quatre domaines d'action prioritaires : mobilité, achats, déchets et énergie. Les processus existants ont été revus puis adaptés, dans la mesure du possible, aux bonnes pratiques en vigueur.

LA GOUVERNANCE

Un système structuré de management durable a été établi pour formaliser et ancrer la démarche. Le développement durable a été ajouté à la Charte de l'Institut et rattaché à la direction administrative, tout en gardant une dimension transversale et systémique. Une commission composée de représentants du personnel administratif et académique a été créée, de même qu'un comité opérationnel. Enfin, la mention « développement durable » a été ajoutée aux cahiers des charges des personnes directement impliquées.

LES ACTIONS

Des actions, des procédures et des outils ont été progressivement mis en place afin de pérenniser puis de mesurer le développement durable dans les domaines de la mobilité (p. ex. allocation d'une prime de mobilité, places de parking payantes, vélos en libre service), des achats (choix des fournitures selon les meilleurs standards environnementaux du marché), des déchets (tri des déchets, récupération et recyclage des déchets informatiques) et de l'énergie (chauffage et rafraîchissement de la Maison de la paix par l'eau du lac, LED, régulation automatique du bâtiment, mise en veille des appareils électroniques).

Le personnel et les étudiants ont été sensibilisés à la démarche à travers des communications, des enquêtes, des formations et des échanges avec le Comité environnemental étudiant.

LA RESPONSABILITÉ SOCIALE (RSE)

Le développement durable repose sur les notions fondamentales du bien-être et de la solidarité. Il ne peut être abordé sans prendre en compte la RSE. L'un des objectifs de l'Institut est de motiver le personnel par l'égalité de traitement, la formation et le développement de compétences afin de cultiver son employabilité. L'Institut souhaite également offrir des conditions de travail flexibles et contribuer ainsi à sa cohésion sociale.

La durabilité est une valeur commune positive qui permet de renforcer le sentiment d'appartenance, la solidarité et l'esprit de corps dans notre communauté cosmopolite.

In 2012, the Institute began an in-depth reflection on sustainable development. An overview of our environmental performance and an impact study identified four priority areas: mobility, procurement, waste and energy. Existing processes were reviewed and adapted, as much as possible, to best practice.

GOVERNANCE

A structured sustainable management system has been established to formalise the approach. Sustainable development has been added to the Charter of the Institute under the responsibility of the Administration management, while keeping a systemic transversal dimension. A commission of academic and administrative staff representatives has been established, as well as an operational committee. Finally, sustainable development criteria have been incorporated into the job descriptions of relevant staff.

ACTION

Procedures and tools have been steadily established to reinforce and measure sustainable development in the areas of mobility (for example, the allocation of a mobility subsidy, paid parking, bicycle sharing), purchasing (supplies and materials selected according to high environmental standards), waste (waste sorting, recovery and recycling of IT equipment) and energy (heating and cooling the Maison de la paix with lake water, LED bulbs, automated building control, use of standby functions for electronic appliances).

Staff and students have been made aware of the approach through communication, surveys, training and exchanges with the Environmental Committee of the Institute's Student Association.

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Sustainable development is based on principles of well-being and inclusiveness; it cannot therefore be addressed without taking into account corporate social responsibility. The Institute aims to motivate staff through equal treatment, training and skills development in order to improve their employability, as well as offering flexible working conditions that contribute to broader social cohesion.

Sustainability is a positive common value that strengthens the sense of belonging, solidarity and team spirit in our cosmopolitan community.

THE CAMPUS DE LA PAIX

Au cœur de la Genève internationale In the Heart of International Geneva

L'Institut et la Genève internationale ont partie liée depuis l'établissement de la Société des Nations au sortir de la Première Guerre mondiale.

Créé quelques années plus tard, en 1927, l'Institut fut la première institution au monde consacrée entièrement à l'étude des affaires internationales – la Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Studies de Princeton et la Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy de l'Université Tufts naquirent au début de la décennie suivante. En 1961 fut créé, sous l'impulsion de Jacques Freymond, l'Institut d'études du développement (sous le nom d'Institut africain), une autre institution pionnière dans son domaine. En 2008, les deux instituts se sont réunis en plaçant sous un même toit les relations internationales et les études du développement et en intégrant de manière novatrice les perspectives et les sensibilités du Nord et du Sud.

Le rôle particulier de l'Institut vis-à-vis de la Genève internationale a été réaffirmé en 2013 dans la législation genevoise et dans la nouvelle convention d'objectifs conclue avec les autorités publiques. La Maison de la paix permet aujourd'hui d'assumer pleinement ce rôle en tissant des liens plus étroits encore avec les experts de la Genève internationale, que ce soit pour l'enseignement, la recherche, la formation continue ou les manifestations publiques.

La cohabitation au sein de la Maison de la paix avec les trois centres soutenus par la Confédération suisse – le Centre pour le contrôle démocratique des forces armées (DCAF), le Centre international de déminage humanitaire (GICHD) et le Centre de politique de sécurité (GCSP) – permet, en outre, de renforcer la thématique « paix et sécurité » et d'en faire l'un des points forts de la Genève internationale.

The Graduate Institute and International Geneva have shared close ties since the establishment of the League of Nations in the wake of the First World War.

Created a few years later, in 1927, the Institute was the first institution in the world dedicated entirely to the study of international affairs – the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Studies at Princeton and the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University were opened in the early 1930s. In 1961, the Institute of Development Studies (then named the African Institute), another pioneer in its field, was created under the guidance of Jacques Freymond. In 2008, the two institutes merged, bringing the study of international relations and development together under one roof and at the same time integrating perspectives from the North and South in novel ways.

The Institute's special role in International Geneva was reaffirmed in 2013 in Geneva cantonal legislation and in the new convention d'objectifs concluded with the public authorities. The Maison de la paix allows the Institute to fully concentrate on this role while further strengthening its ties with International Geneva's experts through teaching, research, executive education and public events.

The Maison de la paix also houses three centres supported by the Swiss Confederation – the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces (DCAF), the Geneva International Centre for Humanitarian Demining (GICHD), and the Geneva Centre for Security Policy (GCSP) – contributing significantly to the theme of peace and security and making it one of International Geneva's strengths.

A Genève et en Suisse In Geneva and in Switzerland

L'Institut bénéficie depuis des décennies du soutien de l'Etat de Genève et de la Confédération suisse. Il doit ce soutien à sa contribution

- à la production scientifique mondiale
- au rayonnement international de Genève
- aux relations extérieures de la Suisse

Ce soutien de longue durée s'explique par la coïncidence des identités et des intérêts. Les activités de l'Institut s'accordent parfaitement avec l'« esprit de Genève », nourri de la mémoire de l'exil huguenot, du rôle de capitale humanitaire après la création du Comité international de la Croix-Rouge et de la tradition d'accueil d'organisations internationales depuis l'établissement de la Société des Nations.

Avec la politique extérieure de la Suisse, l'Institut partage des orientations fondamentales: la primauté du droit, notamment du droit humanitaire et des droits de l'homme; l'importance de la coopération internationale et de l'aide au développement; de manière générale, la nécessité d'un monde ouvert et libre. En valorisant le respect de la diversité et la recherche de solutions pragmatiques, l'Institut s'inscrit, en outre, dans une culture politique qui est caractéristique de la Suisse et représente l'un des meilleurs apports de ce pays à la pratique des relations internationales.

Au-delà de son expertise sur les thématiques-clés de la Genève internationale, l'Institut contribue directement aux relations extérieures de la Suisse par l'action de ses anciens étudiants dans l'administration fédérale (Département fédéral des affaires étrangères, Secrétariat d'Etat à l'économie, Banque nationale suisse, etc.) et la réalisation d'un nombre substantiel de contrats de recherche appliquée. Depuis 2012, l'Institut est lié par un accord-cadre avec le Département fédéral des affaires étrangères, qui met en valeur son rôle d'institut suisse de formation aux carrières internationales et de centre suisse d'expertise sur les affaires mondiales.

Par la qualité de ses ressources et de son réseau, l'Institut est bien équipé pour servir d'interlocuteur académique de la Genève internationale et soutenir la position de la Suisse

- en formant de futurs acteurs internationaux qui seront à travers le monde des ambassadeurs de bonne volonté pour Genève et la Suisse
- en fournissant à la communauté internationale une expertise utile à la formulation et à la mise en œuvre de politiques publiques internationales
- en offrant un perfectionnement professionnel à un large éventail de personnes actives dans l'arène internationale
- en jouant le rôle de plateforme de dialogue et de concertation entre acteurs internationaux de tout type

For several decades, the Institute has benefitted from the support of the State of Geneva and the Swiss Confederation. It receives this support thanks to its contributions to:

- the production of international scientific knowledge
- International Geneva's reputation worldwide
- Switzerland's foreign relations

This long-term support is a testament to shared identities and interests. The Institute's activities are well in line with the "spirit of Geneva", nourished by the memory of the exile of French Protestant Huguenots, by Geneva becoming a humanitarian capital with the creation of the International Committee of the Red Cross, and by its tradition of hosting numerous international organisations since the birth of the League of Nations.

The Institute shares the fundamental objectives of Switzerland's foreign policy: the rule of law, notably humanitarian and human rights law; the importance of international cooperation and development assistance; and, in general, the need for an open and free world. By incorporating respect for diversity and the search for pragmatic solutions, the Institute shares the values of the political culture that is characteristic of Switzerland and represents one of the country's best contributions to the practice of international relations.

Beyond its expertise in International Geneva's key areas of specialisation, the Institute contributes directly to Switzerland's foreign policy through the endeavours of its alumni who work in the Swiss federal administration (Federal Department of Foreign Affairs, State Secretariat for Economic Affairs, Swiss National Bank, etc.) and by carrying out a substantial amount of commissioned applied research. Since 2012, the Institute has had a framework agreement with the Federal Department of Foreign Affairs that strengthens its role as a Swiss institution dedicated to preparing students for international careers and as a Swiss centre of expertise on world affairs.

Through the quality of its resources and network, the Institute is well equipped to carry out its role as International Geneva's academic partner and to contribute to Switzerland's influence by:

- training future international actors who will be ambassadors of the goodwill of Geneva and Switzerland worldwide
- providing useful expertise on the formulation and implementation of public policies to the international community
- offering professional training to a wide range of people active in the international arena
- serving as a platform for dialogue and consultation between international actors of all kinds

NOUVEAUX PROGRAMMES D'ÉTUDES EN PARTENARIAT

Doubles diplômes

En 2014, l'Institut a accueilli les trois premiers étudiants, trois femmes, dans le cadre du programme de double diplôme conclu avec la Harvard Kennedy School et généreusement soutenu par M. Pierre Keller. Un type de double diplôme un peu différent, portant sur une articulation entre bachelor et master, a donné lieu à des accords avec l'Université de Pékin et le Smith College en 2014. Ces programmes permettront à d'excellents étudiants d'être admis à l'Institut à la fin de leur troisième année de bachelor pour commencer une année d'études qui comptera à la fois comme la dernière du bachelor et la première du master.

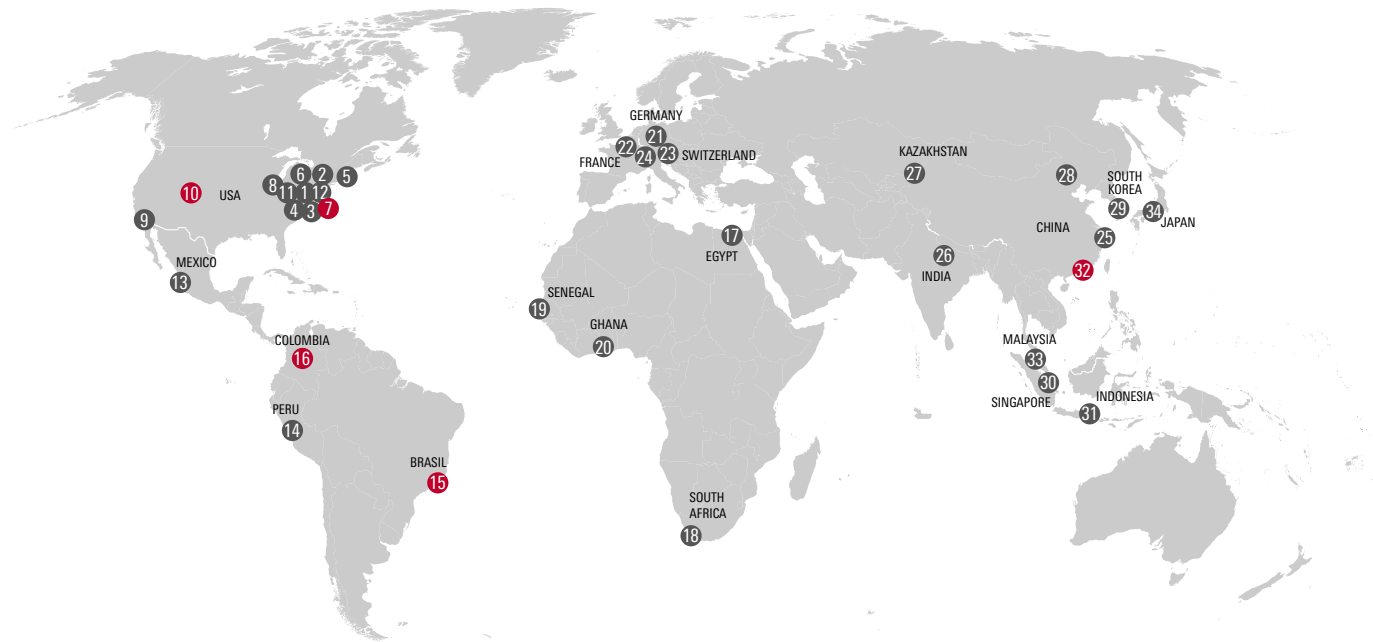

Senior Fellows in Residence

Au-delà du monde universitaire, l'Institut développe des partenariats avec des institutions internationales de premier plan. Désireux d'accueillir leurs cadres au bénéfice d'un congé sabbatique, il a établi un programme de Senior Fellows in Residence qui offre des conditions favorables à la poursuite d'une recherche, notamment en tirant parti de l'interaction avec les professeurs et les étudiants de l'Institut et de la richesse d'expertise de la Genève internationale. Outre l'ONU, l'Institut est inscrit depuis 2014 sur la liste des institutions agréées par la Commission européenne dans le cadre du EU Fellowships Programme. Cette liste comprend actuellement l'Institut européen de Florence, Oxford, Harvard, Yale, l'Université de São Paulo, l'Université nationale de Singapour et l'Université nationale australienne. L'Institut pourra ainsi accueillir dans les prochaines années de hauts fonctionnaires européens qui utiliseront leur congé pour mener une recherche et jouer le rôle d'« ambassadeurs » de l'Union européenne.

Institutions that have joined the academic network in 2014.

En Suisse et dans le monde In Switzerland and throughout the World

- L'Institut est présent en Suisse et dans le monde à travers
- le recrutement de ses étudiants
 - les réseaux de ses enseignants et chercheurs
 - le réseau de ses anciens
 - ses activités de formation continue
 - ses partenaires académiques

Le réseau académique de l'Institut comprend des partenaires en Suisse et dans le monde. En Suisse, l'Institut participe activement au Réseau suisse pour les études internationales (SNIS), qu'il a créé avec l'Université de Genève et qui a pour mission de promouvoir la recherche dans ce domaine d'études. Les autres membres sont le World Trade Institute (Université de Berne), le Center for Comparative and International Studies (Université de Zurich et Ecole polytechnique fédérale de Zurich), l'Institut tropical et de santé publique suisse (Université de Bâle) et le Swiss Institute for International Economics and Applied Economic Research (Université de Saint-Gall).

Avec l'Université de Genève, l'Institut entretient des relations soutenues, comme en témoignent notamment plusieurs centres et programmes conjoints: l'Académie de droit international humanitaire et de droits humains (Geneva Academy), le LL.M. en règlement international des différends (MIDS) et le Centre d'enseignement et de recherche en action humanitaire (CERAH). L'Institut a également des accords de collaboration avec l'Université de Saint-Gall et le Center for Comparative and International Studies à Zurich.

Dans le monde, l'Institut a développé un réseau de partenaires sur tous les continents. De huit en 2007, leur nombre est passé à 34 en 2014; cinq nouveaux accords ont été signés au cours de cette dernière année. Outre la recherche d'une couverture géographique aussi large que possible, la priorité est donnée aux pays émergents.

- The Institute is present in Switzerland and globally, through:
- the recruitment of its students
 - its faculty and research networks
 - its alumni network
 - its Executive Education activities
 - its academic partners

The Institute's academic network is made up of partners in Switzerland and throughout the world. In Switzerland, the Institute participates actively in the Swiss Network for International Studies (SNIS), which it created with the University of Geneva to promote research in its area of specialisation. The other SNIS members are the World Trade Institute (University of Bern), the Center for Comparative and International Studies (University of Zurich and Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich), the Swiss Tropical and Public Health Institute (University of Basel), and the Swiss Institute for International Economics and Applied Economic Research (University of St. Gallen).

The Institute shares longstanding ties with the University of Geneva, which have taken shape through the creation of several joint centres and programmes: the Academy of International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights (Geneva Academy), the LL.M. in International Dispute Settlement (MIDS) and the Centre for Training and Research in Humanitarian Action (CERAH). It has also concluded collaboration agreements with the University of St. Gallen and the Center for Comparative and International Studies in Zurich.

Throughout the world, the Institute has developed a network of partners on all continents. From eight in 2007, their number grew to 34 in 2014; five new agreements were signed during the course of last year. In addition to being represented in as many countries as possible, the Institute prioritises the creation of partnerships in emerging countries.

L'ENSEIGNEMENT
TEACHING

Les programmes d'études Study Programmes

L'Institut offre des programmes d'études disciplinaires et interdisciplinaires. Cette double offre, qui s'ajoute au large éventail des disciplines représentées (anthropologie, droit, économie, histoire, science politique, sociologie), fait l'une de ses originalités, le champ des affaires mondiales étant rarement approché de manière aussi riche et complète.

Les étudiants peuvent du coup choisir, au sortir d'une première formation, entre un approfondissement disciplinaire et un élargissement interdisciplinaire. Même dans le premier cas, la pluridisciplinarité est encouragée. Au niveau du master, les étudiants doivent suivre des enseignements dans une seconde discipline. Au niveau du doctorat, ils ont la possibilité de faire leur thèse dans deux disciplines, l'une choisie comme « majeure », l'autre comme « mineure », et d'obtenir un diplôme qui atteste ce caractère bidisciplinaire. Les étudiants peuvent également effectuer, sous certaines conditions, un parcours complet master-doctorat en cinq ans au lieu de six.

L'enseignement à l'Institut obéit à des critères stricts de qualité. Il se caractérise par une forte interaction entre étudiants et enseignants dans des classes de petite taille, l'importance donnée au travail personnel, un bilinguisme qui laisse à chacun la liberté de s'exprimer en anglais ou en français et, enfin, un souci des débouchés professionnels des étudiants, dont témoignent l'actualisation régulière du curriculum et l'encouragement à effectuer des stages, à participer à des ateliers de compétence et à faire des travaux appliqués utiles à une carrière internationale.

The Institute offers disciplinary and interdisciplinary study programmes. This dual approach, in addition to the wide range of disciplines offered (anthropology, economics, history, law, political science, sociology), represents one of the Institute's unique characteristics: the field of international studies is rarely approached in such a broad and comprehensive manner.

Upon completion of their first degree, incoming students can either study their own discipline in greater depth or opt for interdisciplinary studies. In the case of the former, interdisciplinarity is still encouraged. When studying for a Master, students are required to achieve a certain number of credits in a second discipline. PhD students have the option of writing their thesis in two disciplines, one as their major and the second as their minor. The diploma reflects the bi-disciplinary nature of their doctorate. A fast track also gives students the opportunity to complete their Master and PhD in five years instead of six, under certain conditions.

Teaching at the Institute adheres to high standards of quality. It involves close interaction between students and faculty in small classes, a strong emphasis on personal work, and a bilingual policy allowing everyone to express themselves in either English or French. Close attention to career perspectives means that the curriculum is regularly updated and students are encouraged to undertake internships, participate in workshops and engage in work experiences relevant to an international career.

MASTERS INTERDISCIPLINAIRES

Les masters interdisciplinaires, programmes de deux ans, offrent une perspective transversale des affaires internationales et du développement tout en conférant des savoirs pratiques et des compétences générales qui permettront aux étudiants de mener une carrière internationale.

Master en affaires internationales

Ce programme est destiné à des étudiants qui souhaitent élargir leur formation antérieure à travers une approche interdisciplinaire des relations internationales. Par le biais de cours d'introduction puis de séminaires spécialisés, les étudiants se forment à l'économie, à l'histoire, au droit, à la science politique et à la sociologie. Ils participent également à des cours de méthodologie qualitative et quantitative, des cours bidisciplinaires, des ateliers et des séminaires de recherche appliquée qui leur donneront les outils techniques nécessaires à une analyse et une prise de décision efficaces. Les étudiants peuvent se concentrer sur l'un des trois domaines suivants : intégration globale et régionale ; conflits et consolidation de la paix ; société civile et questions transnationales.

Master en études du développement

Le Master en études du développement procure aux étudiants une formation avancée permettant de traiter les questions de développement dans une perspective interdisciplinaire. Ce programme combine une formation aux méthodes quantitatives et qualitatives avec des cours sur mesure dans des disciplines clés – anthropologie, sociologie, économie, histoire, droit et économie politique. Il propose une approche interdisciplinaire unique de trois thématiques essentielles : développement humain et social ; conflits et développement ; développement et soutenabilité.

INTERDISCIPLINARY MASTERS

The two-year Interdisciplinary Master Programmes prepare students to enter the global workplace by providing them with cross-cutting international affairs and development perspectives while giving them the practical knowledge and professional skills they need for an international career.

Master in International Affairs

This programme offers an interdisciplinary approach to international relations for students who wish to broaden their earlier education. The programme combines introductory courses and specialised seminars in economics, history, law, political science and sociology with courses on quantitative and qualitative methods, bi-disciplinary courses, Applied Research Seminars (ARS) and workshops, thus providing the tools necessary for effective analysis and decision-making. Students can choose to focus on one of the following three areas: Global and Regional Integration; Conflict and Peacebuilding; Civil Society and Transnational Issues.

Master in Development Studies

The Master in Development Studies provides advanced training to enable students to tackle development issues from an interdisciplinary perspective. The programme combines training in quantitative and qualitative methods with tailored discipline-specific courses in anthropology, sociology, economics, history, law, and political economy. It proposes a unique interdisciplinary approach to three critical areas: Human and Social Development; Conflict and Development; Development and Sustainability.

MASTERS ET DOCTORAT DISCIPLINAIRES

- Anthropologie et sociologie du développement
- Droit international
- Economie du développement (uniquement doctorat)
- Economie internationale
- Histoire internationale
- Relations internationales/science politique

Formant des experts aptes à manier concepts et méthodologies, les programmes disciplinaires mettent l'accent sur une spécialisation sans pour autant négliger les apports des autres disciplines : dans les masters, un certain nombre de crédits sont à obtenir dans une branche complémentaire, dans les doctorats, une mineure est possible dans une branche complémentaire.

Le programme de doctorat assure quant à lui une spécialisation de haut niveau dans l'une des disciplines de l'Institut et prépare les diplômés à des fonctions d'expertise et de recherche dans les secteurs public, privé et non lucratif, ainsi qu'à une carrière académique.

Anthropologie et sociologie du développement

Axé sur la contribution spécifique de l'anthropologie et de la sociologie aux études internationales à travers une approche comparée, décentrée et critique des défis et dilemmes du développement dans toutes les régions du monde, y compris les pays du Sud, le programme de master offre aux étudiants un ensemble d'outils méthodologiques et analytiques pour explorer quatre thématiques clés : Etat, droit, pouvoir et conflits ; processus transnationaux, espaces, populations et mobilité ; changements et mouvements sociaux ; culture et identité. Le programme de doctorat permet aux étudiants d'approfondir un de ces domaines particuliers en effectuant une recherche sur le terrain et en préparant leur thèse.

Droit international

Le programme de master apporte aux étudiants une analyse rigoureuse des questions juridiques internationales. Il associe une solide formation de base dans les domaines clés du droit international (création du droit international, règlement des différends internationaux, droit international privé, histoire et philosophie du droit) à une formation approfondie dans un ou plusieurs domaines plus spécialisés, comprenant entre autres le droit du commerce international, le droit des investissements, le droit humanitaire, le droit pénal, le droit de l'environnement, les différends territoriaux et la théorie du droit international. Le programme de doctorat offre une formation de haut niveau qui permet aux étudiants de se spécialiser dans les aspects théoriques et pratiques du droit international.

DISCIPLINARY MASTER AND PHD PROGRAMMES

- Anthropology and Sociology of Development
- International Law
- Development Economics (only PhD)
- International Economics
- International History
- International Relations/Political Science

Disciplinary programmes prepare students to be experts in a specialised field as well as provide them with a range of conceptual and methodological skills without neglecting the perspectives of other key disciplines: in the Master programmes, a certain number of credits must be obtained in a complementary discipline; in the PhD programmes, a minor may be obtained in a complementary discipline.

The PhD Programme guarantees a high level of specialisation in one of the disciplines taught at the Institute and prepares graduates for careers as experts and researchers in the public, private and not-for-profit sectors, as well as for an academic career.

Anthropology and Sociology of Development

Focused on the specific contributions of anthropology and sociology to international studies through a comparative, asymmetric and critical approach of development challenges and dilemmas worldwide, including the South, the Master programme offers students a set of methodological and analytical tools to explore four key themes: state, law, power and conflict; transnationalisation, space, populations and mobility; social movements and transformations; culture and identity. The PhD programme allows students to become more specialised in one of these areas through on-the-ground research and in preparing their thesis.

International Law

This programme provides students with the skills and knowledge necessary for rigorous analysis of contemporary international legal issues. It couples a solid background in the main areas of international law (international law-making, international dispute settlement, private international law, history and philosophy of law) with advanced training in one or more specialised areas, including international trade law, investment law, humanitarian law, criminal law, environmental law, territorial disputes and international law theory. The PhD in International Law offers high-level specialisation and training in both the theoretical and practical aspects of international law.

Doctorat en économie du développement

Le programme de doctorat en économie du développement fournit une formation de pointe aux économistes qui souhaitent consacrer leur recherche aux pays en développement. Deux séminaires doctoraux obligatoires, l'un sur le microdéveloppement, l'autre sur le macrodéveloppement, garantissent une formation rigoureuse et complète des étudiants. Deux cours en économétrie donnent l'occasion aux participants d'acquérir les compétences empiriques nécessaires pour mener des recherches novatrices.

Economie internationale

Le programme de master offre une spécialisation poussée en économie internationale ainsi qu'une ouverture à d'autres disciplines de l'Institut de façon à doter les étudiants d'une perspective globale. Le plan d'études porte notamment sur le commerce, le développement, l'économétrie, la macroéconomie, les crises financières, le changement climatique, l'intégration régionale, les migrations et l'histoire de l'économie. Le programme de doctorat propose une formation avancée ciblée sur le commerce et l'économie monétaire internationale, en plus d'autres grandes questions économiques contemporaines. Les doctorants sont invités à présenter une thèse qui apporte une contribution substantielle à la discipline tout en leur permettant de renforcer leurs capacités de conjuguer une recherche indépendante avec des méthodologies éprouvées et les outils de l'économie moderne.

Histoire internationale

Le programme de master explore les histoires croisées des affaires internationales et du développement international dans le cadre général de «l'histoire avant la nation, au-delà de la nation et entre les nations». Les cours examinent les thématiques suivantes: l'histoire des relations internationales et celle des organisations et mouvements internationaux; l'histoire transnationale et mondiale; les questions relatives au genre, à l'inégalité et à la jeunesse; l'économie internationale et le développement économique; l'esclavage, les empires et la décolonisation; les mouvements de protestation et de révolte et le terrorisme. Le programme couvre l'Afrique, l'Asie, le Moyen-Orient et l'Amérique latine ainsi que les relations entre les grandes puissances de l'Ouest et de l'Asie. Le programme de doctorat permet aux étudiants intéressés par cette discipline d'approfondir leurs connaissances, en particulier dans l'une des thématiques susmentionnées.

Relations internationales / science politique

S'attachant à l'analyse de tous les aspects des relations internationales, le programme de master se destine aux étudiants souhaitant acquérir des compétences de recherche et d'analyse utiles pour poursuivre un doctorat ou mener une carrière dans les secteurs privé ou public. Le plan d'études couvre, entre autres, l'économie politique, la gouvernance multilatérale, la théorie des jeux appliquée, la politique de sécurité, la réglementation environnementale, les conflits et la coopération, le genre, la violence politique, la souveraineté, l'ingérence humanitaire, les méthodes qualitatives et les statistiques. Le programme de doctorat donne aux étudiants les outils nécessaires pour préparer leur thèse de doctorat et pour mener une recherche de haut niveau à l'issue de leurs études.

PhD in Development Economics

Our unique PhD in Development Economics programme provides state-of-the-art training for economists who wish to focus on developing countries. Two compulsory doctoral seminars, one on micro-development, the other on macro-development, ensure that students are both rigorously trained and well-rounded. Two advanced econometrics classes allow students to acquire the empirical skills needed to conduct original research.

International Economics

The Master in International Economics combines a focus on economics with the Institute's multidisciplinary teaching in other key subjects to give students a broader view of economic policy. Courses cover trade, development, econometrics, macroeconomics, financial crises, monetary and financial systems, natural resource economics, climate change, regional integration, migration and economic history, in addition to today's other important economic issues. The PhD programme in International Economics offers advanced training focusing on trade and international monetary economics along with other key contemporary issues in the economics field. As part of the programme, PhD students produce a thesis that represents a substantial contribution to the discipline, which also serves to strengthen their ability to combine independent research with formal methodologies and the tools of modern economics.

International History

The programme explores the intersecting histories of international affairs and international development, with the overall theme of "history before and beyond the nation and between nations". Courses examine the histories of international relations, international organisations and movements; transnational and global history; historical perspectives on gender, inequality and youth; the international economy and economic development; slavery, empires and decolonisation; protests, revolts and terrorism. The geographical range includes Africa, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America, as well as relations between the great powers of the West and Asia. The PhD programme is designed for students interested in this discipline and wishing to deepen their knowledge, particularly in those themes mentioned above.

International Relations / Political Science

The Master programme prepares students for doctoral studies, research activities and careers dealing with different aspects of international relations, which require strong analytical and research skills, whether in the public or private sector. Courses cover political economy, multilateral governance, applied game theory, security policy, environmental regulation, conflict and cooperation, gender, political violence, sovereignty, humanitarian intervention, qualitative methods, statistics and other topics. The PhD programme in International Relations / Political Science gives students the range of skills needed to produce their doctoral thesis and to carry out in-depth research after their studies.

APPLIED RESEARCH SEMINARS

The Applied Research Seminars (ARS) provide students of the Institute's interdisciplinary Master in Development Studies (MDEV) and Master in International Affairs (MIA) with the opportunity to gain hands-on experience working with external partners on "real world" projects. The ARS contribute to strengthening the Institute's ties and research cooperation with International Geneva, while partners benefit from the Institute's academic expertise and inputs from a resourceful, qualified and diverse student body.

Research topics are elaborated in advance with international organisations, NGOs, government agencies and private companies on selected issues in the fields of human and social development, security and conflict, environment and sustainability, governance, trade, health, human rights and migration. Since 2010, more than 150 ARS projects have been completed successfully (53 of them in 2014) with renowned partners such as the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), Thomson Reuters, the International Labour Organization (ILO), Nestlé, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), Rlichemont, the International Organization for Migration (IOM), the World Health Organization (WHO), Sidley Austin, the World Trade Organization (WTO), Givaudan, the World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF), the Swiss Federal Department of Foreign Affairs, Cargill, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the World Economic Forum, the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), OXFAM and the Union of European Football Associations (UEFA). Student groups deliver their results in a written report and present their research findings to the partner organisations. Successful ARS projects regularly lead to publications, the participation of student groups in international conferences or field projects, internships and employment opportunities.

Les professeurs Professors

L'Institut recrute un corps professoral qu'il veut aussi divers que possible par l'âge, le genre, la nationalité, le parcours universitaire et les perspectives scientifiques (voir p. 60-63).

The Institute aims to recruit faculty that are as diverse as possible in age, gender, nationality, academic background and scientific approach (see p. 60–63).

LES PROFESSEURS NOMMÉS EN 2014 NEWLY APPOINTED PROFESSORS

→ NICO KRISCH

Professor of International Law
PhD, University of Heidelberg

Nico Krisch is an international lawyer with a particular interest in the legal structure of global governance, the politics of international law, and the post-national legal order emerging at the intersection of domestic, transnational and international law. He joined the Institute from the Barcelona Institute of International Studies where he was a Research Professor of the Catalan Institution for Research and Advanced Studies. Previously, he was Professor of International Law at the Hertie School of Governance in Berlin, a Senior Lecturer at the Law Department of the London School of Economics, and a Research Fellow at Oxford's Merton College, at New York University School of Law and at the Max Planck Institute for International Law in Heidelberg. He has also been a Visiting Professor at Harvard Law School. Originally from Germany, he holds a PhD in law from the University of Heidelberg. His 2010 book Beyond Constitutionalism: The Pluralist Structure of Postnational Law (Oxford University Press) was awarded the Certificate of Merit of the American Society of International Law. His most recent work focuses on the changing foundations of international law in a context in which its traditional pillars, especially the consent of states, are increasingly weakened.

→ NICOLE BOURBONNAIS

Assistant Professor of International History
PhD, University of Pittsburgh

Nicole Bourbonnais joins the Graduate Institute as an Assistant Professor of International History with a focus on gender in the Global South. She holds a BA from the University of British Columbia and an MA and PhD in History from the University of Pittsburgh. Her doctoral work examined the rise of birth control campaigns in Jamaica, Trinidad, Barbados and Bermuda from the 1930s to the 1970s and was awarded the University of Pittsburgh's 2013 Eduardo Lozano Memorial Dissertation Prize and 2013 Women's Studies Dissertation Prize. Her next project will expand outward to analyse the shared dynamics shaping family planning campaigns, population policies and reproductive politics across the Global South more broadly. In particular, it will trace how activists, doctors, nurses and local communities from Asia to Africa to Latin America worked to shape projects funded by international donors, counter opposition and push the "population control" movement towards a "reproductive rights" agenda over the course of the twentieth century. In addition to her training in history, Nicole Bourbonnais holds a Graduate Certificate in Women's Studies and has volunteered/interned with international development, reproductive health and human rights organisations in Canada, Guyana and Kenya.

→ MOHAMMAD-MAHMOUD OULD MOHAMEDOU

Adjunct Professor of International History
PhD, City University of New York

Mohammad-Mahmoud Ould Mohamedou obtained a PhD in Political Science from the City University of New York. He was Scholar-in-Residence at the Harvard University Centre for Middle Eastern Studies in Cambridge, MA, before becoming a Research Associate at the Ralph Bunche Institute on the United Nations in New York. He was Director of Research at the Geneva-based International Council on Human Rights Policy prior to returning to Harvard where he was Associate Director of the Programme on Humanitarian Policy and Conflict Research. He subsequently served as Minister of Foreign Affairs of Mauritania before returning to Geneva as Head of the Regional Development Programme at the Geneva Centre for Security Policy (GCSP) where he is currently Deputy Director and Academic Dean. His research focuses on political violence and transnational terrorism, the transformation of warfare, political liberalisation and transitions to democracy, and contemporary Middle Eastern and North African socio-political developments and conflicts. Widely published, Dr Mohamedou is regularly quoted in the world's media for his expertise; he is fluent in English, French, Spanish and Arabic.

→ THOMAS SCHULTZ

SFN Professor of International Law
PhD, University of Geneva

Thomas Schultz is a Swiss National Science Foundation Research Professor in the International Law Department. His primary area of interest is transnational business law. This includes issues in international law (mostly private international law, but also public international law to a certain extent), commercial law and legal philosophy. He has also occasionally used methods and theories from legal sociology and law, and economics. His four books deal with questions regarding the concept of transnational stateless law, international arbitration, the rule of law, and e-commerce and Internet law. Other publications span, among others, investment arbitration, the history and general theory of private international law and consumer protection. His current focus, and his main project at the Graduate Institute, is on the use, meaning and potential of the principle of comity as a foundational cornerstone of private international law. His work has been awarded the Jubilee Prize of the Swiss Academy of the Humanities and Social Sciences. He has taught or conducted research at King's College London, the University of Cambridge, the Catholic University of Lille, the University of Essex, the University of Geneva, the Thunderbird School of Global Management, and the Academy of the World Intellectual Property Organization.

À côté des travaux individuels, la recherche à l'Institut est menée dans des centres interdisciplinaires qui forment un milieu intellectuel stimulant, favorisent l'échange entre professeurs et doctorants et renforcent des réseaux d'expertise spécialisés dans les thématiques où Genève et la Suisse ont un avantage comparé. Les centres de recherche de l'Institut offrent une interface unique entre le monde académique et la communauté internationale à travers leurs activités: la recherche avancée et l'accueil de chercheurs du monde entier, l'expertise, l'organisation de débats et la formation.

CENTRE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

■ JEAN-LOUIS ARCAND

Director, Professor of International and Development Economics

■ UGO PANIZZA

Deputy Director, Professor of International Economics

→ The Centre for Finance and Development was established in 2012 with the support of the Pictet Foundation for Development. Its aim is to contribute to global thinking on the twin topics of finance and development

→ 2014 highlights include the first annual conference on the internationalisation of the renminbi, with more than 70 participants; the organisation, jointly with the UNCTAD, of the multidisciplinary academic conference associated with the 2014 World Investment Forum; and a joint conference in Beijing with CEPR and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences on financial market reform and regulation

→ For the second year, the Centre organised the "International Financial Flows to Developing Countries and Emerging Markets: Determinants, Impact and Policy Challenges (A Practitioner's Perspective)" course given by Graduate Institute alumni working at the International Monetary Fund, World Bank and OECD. Finally, the Centre promoted a 'Jobs in Finance and Development Series' for students interested in working in this field

Alongside individual projects, research at the Institute is carried out by interdisciplinary centres that provide an intellectually stimulating environment, encourage cooperation between professors and doctoral students, and strengthen networks of expertise in areas in which Geneva and Switzerland have a comparative advantage. The Institute's research centres offer a unique interface between academia and the international community through their activities: advanced research and the hosting of researchers from all over the world, expertise, and the organisation of debates and training.

CENTRE ON CONFLICT, DEVELOPMENT AND PEACEBUILDING

■ KEITH KRAUSE

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

■ STEPHANIE HOFMANN

Deputy Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

→ Established in 2008, the Centre on Conflict, Development and Peacebuilding unites a multi-disciplinary team of eight faculty members, 18 part- or full-time staff, and an equal number of research associates to engage in joint research initiatives in the areas of conflict analysis, peacebuilding and the complex relationships between security and development

→ In 2014, work continued on four multi-year research grants awarded by the Swiss National Science Foundation and the Swiss Network of International Studies. The Centre signed 12 new research contracts, including projects with the International Labour Organization, various departments of the Swiss Confederation, and the German Institute for Foreign Cultural Relations. It also continued to host the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform

→ Current research themes include security sector governance and the local dynamics of violence; participatory peace processes and political transitions; and performance in international development and security institutions

CENTRE FOR TRADE AND ECONOMIC INTEGRATION

■ RICHARD BALDWIN

Co-Director, Professor of International Economics

■ JOOST PAUWELYN

Co-Director, Professor of International Law

→ The Centre for Trade and Economic Integration fosters world-class multidisciplinary scholarship aimed at developing solutions to problems facing the world trade system and economic integration in general. In doing so, it marks the Graduate Institute as a global hub for the study of trade and economic integration policy issues

→ Key activities during 2014 included: a one-day conference on the future of the multilateral trading system sponsored by a European mission to the WTO; the Seventh Update on Dispute Settlement, an evening event that gathered the chairs of the WTO's Dispute Settlement Body and its Appellate Body, together with four commentators; a bi-weekly seminar that brought together Geneva-based trade scholars from academic institutions and international organisations; and a new Summer School exploring the use of economics in WTO and investor-state dispute settlement

→ Successful proposals submitted during 2014 included: a project to the SNIS that looks at stakeholder participation in global governance; a project to the SNF exploring global value chains and firm performance in developing countries; and a project to a new funder, the Qatar National Research Foundation, that seeks to expand access to trade and investment law through a series of law clinics

→ The Centre worked closely with the WTO to host for the third time the OIKOS Model WTO, a simulation of trade negotiations, and the final round of the European Law Students' Association Moot Court (ELSA Moot Court), a mock WTO trial, in Geneva

CENTRE FOR INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

■ TIMOTHY SWANSON

Co-Director, Professor of International Economics and André Hoffmann Chair in Environmental Economics

■ LILIANA ANDONOVA

Co-Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

→ The Centre for International Environmental Studies is dedicated to developing scholarly research and discourse on global environmental challenges

→ In 2014, the Centre launched a three-year Swiss National Science Foundation (SNF) research project it is leading on green growth, innovation and technology diffusion, in partnership with the Swiss Federal Institutes of Technology in Zurich and in Lausanne and the Grantham Research Institute at the London School of Economics (LSE). Also within the Innovation, Sustainable Growth and Technological Change research programme, funding was approved by the Swiss Federal Office for Energy to investigate how green innovation can contribute to improving the energy intensity of various sectors in Switzerland and other OECD countries

→ The Centre organised, in partnership with the University of Oxford, a workshop of international scholars to address how domestic politics and other factors condition the participation of non-state actors in transnational climate governance initiatives

→ It also co-organised the 16th annual BIOECON Conference at King's College, Cambridge, with the LSE and other partners, to address frontier research issues in environmental and agricultural economics. In advance of this conference, a symposium was convened at which a broad range of recognised experts, including ecologists, agronomists, entomologists and economists, discussed global population, land-use trends and future food security

GLOBAL MIGRATION CENTRE

■ VINCENT CHETAIL

Director, Professor of International Law

→ The Global Migration Centre conducts advanced research, and provides policy-relevant expertise and training on the multifaceted causes and consequences of global migration.

→ In 2014, the Centre consolidated its position as a leader in migration expertise and deepened its links with academic and policy communities. It organised no fewer than 12 events where leading figures (including C. Dauvergne, T. A. Aleinikoff, J. McAdam, S. Kneebone, Ph. De Bruycker, and E. Guild) came to share their expertise on migration issues. It also launched a new doctoral affiliation, among many other activities designed to enhance links with the student community

→ It was also a prolific year in terms of research activities. Forty-nine publications were released, among which three edited books and one monograph. In addition to an associated project launched in collaboration with the Odysseus Academic Network for Legal Studies in Immigration and Asylum in Europe, five new projects started in 2014, including one funded by the United Nations Refugee Agency (UNHCR) on the "Protection of Afghan Asylum-Seekers and Refugees in Europe" that reviews the situation they face in several European countries and explores their mobility patterns

GLOBAL HEALTH PROGRAMME

■ ILONA KICKBUSCH

Director, Associate Professor

→ The Global Health Programme focuses on global governance for health and global health diplomacy within International Geneva and beyond, working in collaboration with a wide range of research centres, think-tanks, universities, international organisations and a group of distinguished senior fellows

→ In 2014, the research focus remained on applied policy research, accompanied by expert advice, policy dialogues and publications. A new research partnership was established with Rabin Martin, focusing on universal health coverage and the new economy of health. The programme continued to monitor and research the important topics of the ongoing WHO Reform and Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) negotiation processes. The programme also published a number of articles, policy briefs and working papers concerning ongoing global health debates throughout the year

→ The Programme has established itself as an important think-tank and platform for policy dialogue, organising eight public events with an outreach of an average of 100 persons each. The Programme has partnered in many events with other think tanks, academic institutions, diplomatic missions and international organisations, such as Chatham House, the Institute of Global Health of the University of Geneva, and the WHO. A specific contract was signed in 2014 with the Swiss Federal Department for Foreign Affairs to strengthen International Geneva as a hub of global health

→ The Programme implemented executive training courses and high-level seminars in global health diplomacy for more than 230 professionals, introducing new courses on "Global Health Instruments: The Case of the FCTC" and on "Multistakeholder Diplomacy". The first public online course on global health diplomacy was launched and courses were held in Turkmenistan, Moldova and China. The programme conducted the French-language course a second time, establishing it as a second flagship course in Geneva

PROGRAMME FOR THE STUDY OF INTERNATIONAL GOVERNANCE

■ THOMAS J. BIERSTEKER

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science and Curt Gasteyger Chair in International Security and Conflict Studies

- The Programme for the Study of International Governance offers a forum for faculty and students to interact with practitioners and policy-makers to analyse international governance across global issues.
- 2014 saw research initiatives focused on the burgeoning role of non-state actors in evolving global governance arrangements
- Highlights of the Programme's activities included: the co-organisation of the International Geneva Luncheon seminar series with the United Nations Office of Geneva (UNOG); participation as the Institute's liaison in UNOG's Perception Change Project; co-sponsorship of the History of International Organizations Network seminar series; and co-organisation of the 2014 Global Think Tank Summit in Geneva
- As the local organising institution for the Global Think Tank Summit, the programme partnered with the University of Pennsylvania's Think Tank Civil Societies Program, the Swiss Confederation, UNOG, the US Mission in Geneva, foraus, the Republic and State of Geneva, Fondation pour Genève, and Friedrich Ebert Stiftung, to bring together leaders of more than 60 major think tanks from around the world. The Summit kick-started an innovative collaboration between think tanks, the Graduate Institute and International Geneva on human rights, health, humanitarian action, the economy and security. Particular attention was paid to the post-2015 Sustainable Development Goals, their funding, implementation, monitoring and evaluation

PROGRAMME ON GENDER AND GLOBAL CHANGE

■ ELISABETH PRÜGL

Director, Professor of International Relations/Political Science

- The Programme on Gender and Global Change produces research on gender in development and international relations and disseminates knowledge in both anglophone and francophone areas
- The Swiss Programme for Research on Global Issues for Development (r4d) approved the Programme's research project on "Land Commercialisation, Gendered Agrarian Transformation and the Right to Food" that will broaden the programme's expertise in its priority area of agriculture and rural development, adding to ongoing and former research by faculty affiliates on the topic
- In 2014, the Programme launched another project funded by the r4d programme exploring "The Gender Dimensions of Social Conflict, Armed Violence and Peacebuilding" and continued its work in the area of feminism and the politics of change
- The Programme has expanded its e-learning programme and gained approval to offer a Certificate of Advanced Studies in Gender and Development. It has continued its conference series on gender and development and is providing expertise in discussions about the post-2015 development agenda by participating in the Sustainable Development Solutions Network and contributing to debates on international issues in the Global Agenda Councils of the World Economic Forum

REGIONAL TRAINING PROGRAMME FOR OFFICIALS FROM THE GREAT LAKES REGION

Capacity building of 132 civil servants from 11 countries of the African Great Lakes

This programme is the result of a partnership between the Graduate Institute and the International Conference on the Great Lakes Region (ICGLR), a regional intergovernmental organisation created in 2006 and based in Bujumbura, Burundi. The project, sponsored by the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation, aimed to support the ICGLR's mandate to promote peace and stability in the region through the reinforcement of the capacities of the ICGLR itself as well as that of its Member States. It also included the creation and development of a network of alumni with the aim of facilitating understanding and exchanges among government officials from countries in the region.

Among other issues, the programme provided training to civil servants on regional integration and the role of regional organisations, economic development, and the post-2015 development agenda, with the objective of developing their ability to navigate the international and regional agenda and reinforce their technical competencies to do so.

This phase of the project ended with the first regional alumni workshop, held in November 2014 in Kampala. The event gathered 94 project alumni for a two-day workshop using strategic foresight and scenario-making techniques to envisage the future of the region.

Support for the project from ICGLR Member States has been very strong and they expressed their willingness for it to continue.

LES ACTIVITÉS DE FORUM
FORUM ACTIVITIES

José Manuel Barroso lors de la conférence qu'il a donnée à l'Institut le 20 novembre 2014 : « L'Union européenne dans le monde ».

L'Institut contribue au débat intellectuel et à la réflexion prospective sur les principales problématiques du monde contemporain et sur des thématiques majeures telles que le commerce, les conflits, l'environnement, les migrations, la santé, les questions de genre et de gouvernance, les rapports entre finance et politique ainsi que ceux entre religion et politique.

En 2014, l'Institut a vu doubler le nombre de ses manifestations publiques, devenant ainsi un forum de choix, en particulier pour la communauté internationale de Genève. La Maison de la paix, par la beauté de son architecture et sa localisation aux portes du Palais des Nations Unies, a contribué de manière significative à attirer des conférenciers de réputation mondiale. Outre l'accueil d'orateurs exceptionnels, l'Institut a organisé avec toute une série d'organisations internationales (Banque mondiale, Conférence des Nations Unies sur le commerce et le développement [CNUCED], Organisation des Nations Unies pour l'alimentation et l'agriculture [UNFAO], Fonds des Nations Unies pour la population [FNUAP], Organisation mondiale de la santé [OMS], Office des Nations Unies à Genève [ONUG], Programme des Nations Unies pour le développement [PNUD], Commission économique des Nations Unies pour l'Europe [UNECE]) ainsi qu'avec des missions permanentes à Genève, des manifestations conjointes qui ont souvent fait salle comble. De tels partenariats permettent de soutenir le développement professionnel de nos étudiants, de contribuer à une recherche pertinente pour les politiques et d'accroître notre rayonnement.

The Institute contributes to intellectual debate and forward-looking reflection on the main challenges of today's world and on major issues such as trade, conflict, environment, migration, health, gender and governance, as well as the links between finance and politics, and those between religion and politics.

In 2014, the Institute doubled the number of public events in comparison to previous years, becoming a forum of choice for Geneva's international community. The Maison de la paix, with the beauty of its design and its location in the heart of International Geneva, significantly contributed to attracting well-known figures. In addition to hosting exceptional speakers, the Institute partnered with various international organisations (for example the United Nations Office at Geneva [UNOG], United Nations Development Programme [UNDP], United Nations Conference on Trade and Development [UNCTAD], United Nations Economic Commission for Europe [UNECE], Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations [UNFAO], United Nations Population Fund [UNFPA], World Health Organization [WHO], World Bank Group) and permanent missions in Geneva to co-organise events. Such partnerships support the professional development of our students, contribute to our policy-relevant research and significantly increase our outreach.

2014 ADVANCING DEVELOPMENT GOALS CONTEST

Irene Khan, Director-General of the International Development Law Organization, delivered a lecture on “Changing Women’s Lives: Empowerment, Innovation and Development” on 15 September 2014. The lecture was part of the awards ceremony for the “Advancing Development Goals” international competition for Master’s students. The theme of the 2014 competition was “Empowering Women for Development”.

The winning team – Catalina Correa, Laura Martinez and Maria Adelaida Martinez – came from the Universidad de los Andes in Bogotá, Colombia. Their project focused on empowering female sex workers in Bogotá. The second place went to a multi-cultural team from the University of Reading in the UK, and the third place to a team from the Universities of Toronto and Western Ontario in Canada.

The Advancing Development Goals contest has been made possible by the vision and generosity of former Swiss Ambassador Jenö Staehelin, and is placed under the patronage of former UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan.

Irene Khan, Director-General of IDLO.
