REPORT

Green Industrial Policy and Trade: A Tool-Box

Jorge E. Viñuales (University of Cambridge and Graduate Institute) provides a policy-relevant tool-box emphasising that trade is an instrument to pursue sustainable development, and not a goal in and of itself.

PHD THESIS

Promoting Compliance in the European Union Environmental Sector

EU environmental regulations suffer from a higher rate of non-compliance than any other sector. Understanding why this is so is a crucial, though insufficiently explored, issue. Olga Kovarzina's thesis helps to fill this gap.

BOOK CHAPTER

Environmental Humanities and Amazon Land Development Politics

Published in New Frontiers in Environmental Humanities (by Heise, Christensen and Niemann, Routledge), this chapter by Susanna Hecht explores how competing models of domestication are currently playing out in debates over indigenous "footprints" in the Amazonian basin in pre-Colombian times.

ARTICLE

Global Economic Growth and Agricultural Land Conversion under Uncertain Productivity Improvements in Agriculture

Bruno Lanz, Simon Dietz and Tim Swanson (in American Journal of Agricultural Economics, aax078, Dec 2017) study how stochasticity in the evolution of agricultural productivity interacts with economic and population growth at the global level.

RESEARCH BRIEF

Taking Stock of International Law Responses to Resource Wars

Resource wars have diverse legal implications; yet international law norms have primarily developed in response to certain sets of issues that PhD Candidate Lys Kulamadayil presents in this CIES Research Brief (no. 2, Feb. 2018).

The Shifting Lines of Illness and hHealth

In Medicine Anthropology Theory (vol. 4, no. 3, 2017), Aditya Bharadwaj shows how emerging biotechnological modalities that cultivate an idea of "cure as regeneration" dislocate expert knowledge, descriptions of disease, and its representation into contested new terrains.

BOOK

An Anthropology of Biomedicine

In this fully revised and updated second edition (Wiley, Feb. 2018), Margaret Lock and Vinh-Kim Nguyen introduce biomedicine from an anthropological perspective, exploring the entanglement of material bodies with history, environment, culture, and politics.

And Yet It Moves: Inflation and the Great Recession

In this 19th Geneva Report on the World Economy (October 2017) published by the International Center for Monetary and Banking Studies, David Miles, Ugo Panizza, Ricardo Reis and Ángel Ubide ask whether it was good policy or good luck that prevented severe deflation and kept inflation relatively steady.

Torture by Private Actors and "Gold-Plating" the Offence in National Law

The email exchange (in Arcs of Global Justice: Essays in Honour of William Schabas, eds. Guzman and Amann, OUP) between Andrew Clapham and Paola Gaeta offers a snapshot of an argument over whether states parties to the Torture Convention are obliged to criminalise in domestic law the crime of torture as such.

Governance

The Gift as Colonial Ideology?

Grégoire Mallard traces the discursive associations between Mauss' anthropological concepts ("gift," "exchanges of prestations" and "generosity") and the reformist programme of French socialists who pushed for an "altruistic" colonial policy in the interwar period.
