Current research

- Gangs, Gangsters, and Ganglands – multi-year research programme funded by an ERC Advanced Grant (see above), exploring the global evolution of gangs through comparative ethnographic research in Nicaragua, South Africa, and France, including on gang evolution, the cross-historical and contextual collection of life histories, and the spatial analysis of urban security configurations in order to categorize and typologize the trajectories of gangs across the world from organisational, individual, and contextual perspectives. Planned outputs include two co-authored monographs, two edited volumes, and half a dozen single and co-authored articles.
- The Chicago School Re-considered (with Gareth A. Jones, LSE) – Research project based on archival research, exploring forgotten aspects of the (in)famous Chicago School of Sociology, including in particular their origins, research ethics and practices, their comparative global urbanism, and their collaborative ethnographies. Includes the production of an invited submission to Cambridge University Press, the edited volume Standing on the Shoulders of Giants: The enduring relevance of the Chicago School of Sociology, with contributions from 17 international scholars considering classic Chicago School monographs in relation to their contemporary global research (currently in the final stages of preparation).
- Bismarckian Transformations in Nicaragua: From gang member to drug dealer to legal entrepreneur / Itinéraire d'un gangster réformé : Transformations Bismarckiennes au Nicaragua – Monograph based on the life-history of a gang member turned drug dealer turned legal entrepreneur that I am writing simultaneously in both English and French with a view to publishing in both languages at the same time (the English version will be submitted to Duke University Press, and the French version to Karthala).
- Gang Lives – Monograph based on a series of archetypal life histories of gang members from different epochs, as well as some of their family members (this is loosely a companion volume to my contracted monograph, Gangland Nicaragua).
